NEWSFLASH:

Strength-Based Leadership

Online Course - November 17-18, 2022

Presenter: Dr. Paul Mohapel, PhD

The culture of health care tends to view leadership as "solving problems." But the conventional wisdom of fixing weaknesses (i.e., find what's wrong and try to correct it) has been shown to be limiting and ineffective in the long term. It can lead to uninspired individual and organizational performance and contribute to demotivation and stress.

Focusing on what works and paying more attention to what intrinsically energizes people is a much more effective approach.

Funding available through JCC Leadership Scholarship Program and we can help you through the process!

NEWSFLASH:

"Advocacy For Change"

Online Course - September 14, 2022

Sponsored by Doctors of BC -- it's free!

Advocacy is part of a physician's day-to-day practice, but can take many forms and sometimes be challenged in a hostile environment. Learn how to leverage an advocacy framework in this 3 hour course to help lead meaningful change in your practice.

Here's the link for info and to register.
